Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by Palmer et al (6,660,021).

As to claims 1, 3, and 4, Palmer et al discloses the claimed invention as show in figure 32 (below).

As to claims 2, 6-8, wherein Palmer et al. in figures 26 and 29-32, the proximal strut is adapted to be rotatably and slidably mounted on a guide wire or elongated member (604,702) (col. 17, lines 50-59 and col. 18, lines 25-29) and distal strut connected to an obturator (610,712).

1. Claims 37-38 and 42-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Daniel et al. (U.S. 6,245,089).

Daniel et al discloses in figure 21B, a filter assembly (352) having an expandable cage (344), wherein said cage (344) including a circumferential member (354) which forms an inlet opening (at 356); a guidewire (346) extending through the inlet opening (at 356) of the circumferential member (354); and means or proximal strut (358,360) for maintaining the guidewire (346) substantially centered through the circumferential member (354) when the cage is placed in the expanded position.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 29-41 and 45-47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Palmer et al (6,660,021) in view of Daniel et al. (U.S. 6,245,089).

Palmer et al discloses the claimed invention except for a guidewire (604) extends through the inlet opening of the circumferential member. However, Daniel et al teaches in figure 21B, that it is know in the surgical art to have guidewire (346) extends through the inlet opening of the circumferential member (354).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Palmer et al guidewire which it would extends through the inlet opening of the circumferential member as taught by Daniel et al to provides some additional structural integrity to the circumferential member, but still allows circumferential member to float about the guidewire.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 02/28/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. With respect to claim 1, Applicant argues that Palmer patent fails to disclose the second end of the proximal strut positioning substantially near a longitudinal axis extending through the center of the circumferential member when its in the expanded position. This is simply not convincing, the second end of the proximal strut as shown in figure 32, of the Palmer patent is clearly capable of being in the configuration as claimed when the strut is in the expanded position.
4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 29 and 37 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
